“My studies in German allowed me to develop an understanding of second language acquisition which directly and positively impacted my career as an ESOL teacher. My experience in a foreign language setting during my study abroad in Berlin facilitated my ability to identify with the daily language obstacles of my students on a personal level. The study abroad program placed me in a classroom where I was teaching English to Turkish women of all ages. My experiences at this internship sparked my interest in ESOL and I knew it was what I wanted to do as my career!”
